Sardou's "Thermidor" was made known at the Olympic last evening and after witnessing the performance the wonder is not so much that it was suppressed in Pari's, but that it has failed to be suppressed in ough there are bold sentiments in the "Times" Wins a Novel Laweuit-Can-play on the subject of religion and poli-tics which might excite the volatile Paristics which might excite the volatile Parisians, yet it is far better fitted to entertain Parisians than Americans, by reason of its elaborate treatment of revolutionary incidents, topics and personages. It follows the French classic style of development in which subtle argument and dialogue take the place of so-called dramatic action. Amid the dark surroundings of the French revolution and its bloody mobocracy Sardou has placed the simplest sort of a drama. It is merely the attempt of Martial Hugon, a solder, and his friend, Charles Labressiere, to save Fabenne Leceneteux Hugon's fiancee who, thinking him dead, had taken her first religious yows, from the guillotine. This attempt is made not through the exercise of dramatic machinery, but through argument and persuasion. Conscience and honor are the motives of the drama.

The attempt first to persuade the deeply religious girl to violate her vows and marry her lover, and then to sacrifice her honor by admitting that she has been unchaste and is about to become a mother, which would be a bar to her execution, occupy the two principal acts. Another act is interjected in which Hugon persuades Labressiere, who although an actor, occupies a place in the Bureau of Arrests, to substitute the name of another woman for that of Fablenne. Thus it will be seen that the drama presents the struggle between conscience and friendship in the actor Labressiere and conscience and honor against love and desire for life in Fablenne.

That there are strong motives here cannot be denied, and that Sardou treats them with subtlety and force at times must be admitted. There are opportunities for the display of skill and power in acting and the dramatist makes several bold and vigorous strokes in the delineation of nature and passion. There are points of strong interest for the lin. gent auditor in the tragedy, but it is marred by an artificiality which approaches clap-trap, a monotony of development and a tiresomeness of useless clanger. In short the production, while having elements of lans, yet it is far better fitted to entertain this result is due to the acting. Like all of Sornou's tragedies, the intense atmosphere must be sustained in order to produce intense results. The play calls for an intense and forcetul actress, one who can portray subtle emotions with vividness. Miss Elsie de Walfe is misplaced in the role of Fabienne. She is given more than she is capable of doing. Although naving refinement, intelligence and talent which would be appreciated in more suitable work, she falls short of the requirements of her part.

The Hagan—Janauschek appears at the Hagan this week tells a story, every scene of which is located in an old-fashloned English inn. As Mrs. Edith Oakley, the hostess of this "Harvest Moon Inn," a woman who has been grievously wronged in years past by one Sir Charles Gordon (Harry D. Clifton) Janauschek has a character in which time-chastened sorrow is varied only occasionally by bursts of sudden strong emotion as the story progresses. Her son and Sir Charles Gordon's, the village curate, Rev. Horace Deerwood (A. H. Stuart) who is ignorant of his parentage, loves his father's niece, Blanche Gordon (Miss Louise Bampfield), but his suit is indignantly rejected by the proud baronet until told by Edith Oakley of the secret of Deerwood's birth. The midnight nurder, in the inn, of Sir Charles Gordon by one "Devil-may-care Sampson" alias Tony Harrington of the States (Paul R. Everton) who "makes up" for the murder as the innocent curate and is seen and wrongly recognized as Deerwood by Mrs. Edith Oakley, brings a strong element of melodrama into the play, which lasts then until its close,
The curate is only saved in the last act by coming face to face with the villain again in his Deerwood disguise, the "double" of the two as then shown on the stage making a striking and diamatic scene. The villain is arrested by Hardfast (Davenport Beius), a remarkable London detective, and the story ends happly. Its comedy element is suppilled by the characters of Simon swipes (Paul Davis), a village dealer in butter and eggs, and Clara Oakley (Miss Jessie Bonstella), the landlady's daughter. The play, Add Ryman takes the part of Hiram Pepper from Montana, Jas. A. Mahony that of Harry Horton, Geo. W. heated exchange of opinions between Hon. M. D. Harter of Ohio and Congressman Bland on the subject of free coinage has had the effect of "shaking out" considerable Democratic opinion on silver. Mr. Bland charged the Ohioan with 'buildozing' the Democracy, while Mr. Harter returns to the charge that "if there has been any 'buildozing' in-dulged in it will scarcely be necessary to bring witnesses to prove that the silver men would do if a free silver bill were not passed There is not much doubt that if Mr. Mills had chosen to keep guiet on the silver question. or if he had asserted that he would make a committee that would favor a free coinage bill he would have had many more free ought to be said, but he showed his leader-ship when he was able to induce Mr. Bland to follow and to vote for him for Speaker, when he was really aware of the purpose of Mr. Mills to make the silver question a subordinate one in case he was made Speaker of the of reason for letting alone the silver business of reason for letting alone the sliver business in which they can accomplish nothing except to prejudice a part of the country against the party, and many reasons for being more vizorous and reasonable in discussing the tariff question, although they can do nothing more in the way of tariff reform than to deepen the conviction of the people that it is necessary and that it can never be expected while the Republicans rely upon the protected manufacturers to raise the money to put the Harrisons and Wanamakers in office."

to put the Harrisons and Wanamakers in office."

Representative Lind of Minnesota says that the only consistent course for the Democrats is to go forward with the sliver bill and make the best fight possible. After taking the position they did in the last Congress and during the campaign, it would be folly to change their tactics now. Mr. Islad voted for the Bland bill in the last Congress, and it was generally supposed that he intended doing so again. He says:

"The passage of a free coinage act would not increase the volume of money in the country. We are not utilizing all the silver we produce as a basis for legal tender money. Our per capita of circulation is daily increasing under the operations of the law passed by the last Congress, and in a manner that involves no possible risk. For these reasons I will not vote for free coinage at this time, aithough I believe that it is the only way to ultimately obtain true bimetalism unless it can be effected by international agreement."

Mr. Lind has been regarded as being favorable to free coinage.

The three Democratic Espresentatives would be appreciated in more suitable work, she falls short of the requirements of her part.

The other most prominent part is that of Labressiere, who may be said to have the fat of the play. It is taken with skill and excellent effect by Frederick Bond. Frederic de Belleville, although a finished and careful actor, was hardly suited to the role of the romantic lover, Martial Hagan, and failed to get the most pleasing results. The minor roles were satisfactorily played, and the production was elaborate and artistic.

There was an excellent audience which received the best points of the performance with warm approval, and the principals were called before the curtain.

GRAND—HOTT'S "A TEXAS STEER."

How big a hit Hoty's " Texas Steer" has made with the St. Louis public may be judged by the fact that its return engagement at the Grand Opera-house this week promises to be a record breaker. On the opening and last night the theater was packed, and the play was punctuated with laughter and applause.

A sweet and wholesome element of pure comedy is introduced in the part of Bossy, which is played naturally and charmingly by Flora Walsh, and a well-known character is skillfully and amusingly portrayed by Tim Murphy in Col. THE HAGAN-JANAUSCHEK. was the direct manipulation of Don M. Dickinson, who is anxious to offset the growing Hill movement in the State. It is even whispered that it is the beginning of a concentration of Western forces in Cleveland's favor. That the ex-President should come here at this particular time and make his piea for purer sentiment in national politics is regarded as peculiarly significant.

"Dickinson wanted the speech in favor of virtue and purity printed simultaneously with the addresses at the banquet of the Michigan Club," said one Hill Democrat. "He wants comparisons to be made, for he swears by Cleveland in everything." Dickinson himself denies that either, he or the ex-President is actuated by any such motives. "I assure you there is no politics in this," he told a correspondent last night. "The Republicans have been too kind to us for us to attempt to derive any partisan satisfaction out of to-day's demonstration."

J. Sloat Fassett of New York in an interview yesterday said Cleveland is becoming stronger than Hill, because the country at large is getting disgusted with Hill's utter lack of principle and disregard of all law when the law is in the way of his own ambition.

"All this is mere talk. I am not and do not pretend to be a factor in President mak-ing. The convention in June will settle it. The party, and not the man or men, is what we are after. What is best to be done is not to be determined before the ask hours of the convention meets, not perhaps, before the last hours of the convention. It is idle now for any man to name a ticket, and I am not an Idle man. In the present uncertainty of the Democratic party, with the disturbances prevailing, especially in New York, delegates should go unpledged, foot-loose and free, so that they shall do the best under the circumstances when the last hour comes. Then the wisdom of the party will prevail. No man in our party now knows exactly what is best to be done. All will know at least approximately, then, and we all now believe that two Democrats can be elected President and Vice-Fresident of the United States if an unmustled convention with enough wisdom names them. I have no candidates, but if want delegates I think I can find them among the 6,000,000 Democrats of the republic." we are after. What is best to be done is not

The ex-President said he was very well pleased with his reception, which was one of the heartlest ever tendered him. They aver that the trip was the direct manipulation of Don M. Dick. Inson, who is anxious to offset the growing Hill movement in the State. Edward, alias "Foggy" Ryan, is lying on a cot in the City Hospital with his right leg broken at the knee and a bullet in the calf of his left leg. Both bullets were discharged from the revolver of Officer Louis Varwig at 1:15 o'clock this morning as he was chasing Foggy after he had jumped from the window of a house where he had no business. For half an hour, between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, Officer Varwig watched three young men sneak from house to house on Carr street, between nineteenth and Twenty-first streets, trying front doors and shutters. Suddenly he lost sight of them and began a search. He heard a scream from the house of William Hall, a colored man living at 2019 Carr street, and running to the place arrived there just in time to see two young men jump from the window. He called upon them to halt, but they continued running and varwig fired two shots at the legs of the fuglitives. His aim was very true as one of the men uttered a yell and fell to the ground, while the other stoped to pick him up. Varwig caught hold of the injured man and he showed fight. Bringing his club into play Varwig soon had the second burglar stretched on the sidewalk bleeding from several scalp wounds. Other officers arrived and the prisoners were taken to the police station. There they were recognized as William alias "Curley" Ryan and his brother Edward alias "Foggy." Both boys have been in the colls before and are well known. They were sent to the City Dispensary, where William's wounds were dressed and Edward was sent to the hospital. Late in the night John Hayes was arrested at his home, 2010 Dickson street, by another officer and locked up at the Third District Station. Both Ryan boys, it is said, have been punished before for burglary and Hayes is said to have served a term over two years ago for burglarizing a store 1900 Biddle street, last Saturday night and stole his pants containing side and a gold watch. The pants were found in the yard Sunday morning. This burglars entered by cutting slats from a shutter and raising the withou. cot in the City Hospital with his right leg broken at the knee and a bullet in the calf of SUICIDES.

ers and laborers on to a political victory, world wide in influence.

At 8:30 o'clock this morning the Exposition doors were thrown open for the second day's session of this Industrial Conference. There were already several hundred delegates waiting outside, and they hurried in to the places allotted their respective States in the majestic hall. At 9 o'clock the electric lights were turned on. By 9:30 o'clock all the delegations were seated, and the scene again presented the notable spectacle offered by yesterday's opening session. The banners of the different States rose above the delegates throughout the hall, futtering like the flags over an army encamped. The great stage, brilliant and vivid with the national colors, was filled with the leaders of the Alliance, the Knights of Labor, the Single Tax people, the Prohibitionists, the Anti-monopolists, the People's party, the Reform Press and the Women's Alliance. To the right of the stage was stretched a broad poster of bunting which bore the words:

"We do not ask for sympathy or pity. We ask for justice."

"We do not ask for sympathy or bity. We ask for justice."

Opposite this "strange device" there fluttered the gay sliken standard of the Colorado delegation, the only attempt at finery made in this gathering of farmers and wage workers, where all seemed to be purposely arranged on the basis of simplicity and bald plainness.

In the aisles and lobbies delegates stood in groups and talked earnestly of the objects sought to be attained by the conference. They were mostly gray-haired, sun-burned and roughly clothed men, these delegates. The "ward-bummer," the political "boss" and the "worker at the polis" were conspictously absent from this peculiar political picture.

MAKE-UP OF THE CONVENTION.

Among the delegates were many women, nearly all of them middle-aged, dressed in unfassionable gowns, but with thoughtful faces and earnest eyes, with hair brushed smoothly back from their horses.

smoothly back from their brows, with hands that looked as though they were familiar with "housework."

These women seemed to feel that they had personal interests at stake in the Industrial Conference, and that those interests were being recognized. They talked pleasantly but firmly of what "we" were going to do during the convention.

being recognized. They talked pleasantly but firmly of what "we" were going to do during the convention.

At 9:30 clock the auditorium was crowded, but the conference had not opened its session. The Credentials Committee was already at work in an ante-wom, and it was understood that a wrange had developed as to the seating of some of the delegations.

Before the session opened, Jacob Beck, an old farmer from Decatur, Neb., delivered a humorous speech on the subject of land and money which kept the audience roaring with laughter, the gray-headed speaker himself joining in the laughter as though some one else were telling his quaint Lincolnish anecdotes.

At the back of the stage a knot of delegates stood talking. They were wondering why it was that the press of this country, almost without exception, refused to give fair and uncolored reports of the conventions of farmers and laboring men.

Then the morning session of the industrial Conference, the "singing session," opened as told in full below, and the socond day's work was begun.

Then the morning session of the Industrial Conterence, the "singing session," opened as told in full below, and the second day's work was begun.

There was a characteristic incident on the stage between the songs. Mrs. Agnes Mitchell of Chicago is a white haired, matronly lady, whose snowy locks, arranged a la pompadour above her intensity enthusiastic face, add to her striking appearance. She has a soprano voice which rings like a silver cornet when she sings, and she had just finished singing an Alliance song set to the stirring tune of John Brown's lody." Some one congratulated her on the effect of her voice upon the delegates.

"It is my baby, the Farmers' Alliance," said the sweet-voiced old lady. "I love to sing to it, and it loves to hear me!" And while Alliance and Third Party songs wete sounding through the Exposition Hall if was being whilspered that a "split" was developing among the delegations. The Southern wing of the convention was protesting against the "Third Party idea." It was afraid to cut loose from the Democratic party. This caused as undercurrent of supense, uncertainty and apprehension to run beneath the sweeping waves of song and oratory on the surface.

Mr. Cannon of California, the temporary chairman, announced shortly after 9 o'clock that the Committee on Credentials was working hard, but would not be ready to report for three-quarters of an hour. The convention could, in the meantime, entertain itself in any manner agreeable to it.

Gen. Weaver was called for, but he excused himself from making a speech then. He wanted to wait until there was something before the convention for him to speak on. He wanted to wait until there was something before the convention for him to speak on. He wanted to sing a song or two. The lady sang "The Battle Cry of Labor" to the tune of "Good By, My Lover, Good By." The audience Jolned in the chorus in each instance, Both songs were received with tremendous applause. Will Lurton, another campaign songster from the Sucker late, entertained the convention

Work Accomplished During the Second Day's Session—Committees Appointed and at Work—The Gredentials Committee Compromise the Georgia Split—Option Dealing Condemned—The Platform and Its Four Planks—Single Tax Ignored—Jerry Simpson Interviewed.

The morning session of the Industrial Conference to-day, witnessed by a casual visitor to Exposition Music Hall, suggested vividy to the mind that wise and famous sentence: "Let me make the songs of a people and I care not who makes their laws."

It was a singing session. Therein lay its distinctive unlikeness to any other political gathering ever witnessed in St. Louis, and therein lay, possibly, a significant indication of its possibilities of strength. Songs from the platform of a political convention of one, perhaps, seem exactly in keeping with the occasion. But it is a fact well to be kept in mind that went to the people's heart and stayed there in the propie's heart and stayed there in the propie's heart and stayed there in the propie's heart and stayed there in the sposition followed, Monarchy fell in France to the ringing sign of the "Yankee Doodle," "Maryiand, Of "Yankee Doodle," "Maryiand, Of the quaint pibroch of "Yankee Doodle" and later met its resistance to the patriotic strains of the "Star Spangled Banner." Thirty years ago the words and music of "Yankee Doodle," "Maryland, "Maryland," and "Dixie" played no inconsiderable part in the awful struggle between the States. These facts are recalled merely to show that the "sing sessions" of the Industrial Conference are not without precedent. Exposition Music Hall echoed and reschoed this morning with the favorite songs of the Farmers' Alliance. It may be that among those songs there is one which will go down in history as the song which led farmers and laborers on to a political victory, world-wide in influence.

At 8:30 o'clock this morning the Exposition doors were thrown open for the second day's session of this Industrial Conference. There were already several hundred delegates waiting outside, and they hurried in to the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Conference waiting outside, and they hurried in to the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Conference waiting outside, and they hurried in to the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Conference are not without precedent.

Exposition Music Hall echoed and reschoed this morning with the favorite songs of the Farmers' Alliance in the submitting the report of the Committee on Credentials, Gerry Brown stated that it was a complete report except as to the State of Georgia. The report was read, as follows:

Exposition Music Hall echoed and reschoed this morning with the favorite songs of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association of Moultrie County, Ill., the former as president. He sent in his credentials.

permanent Chairman. Col. Polk objected to the election, as it was irregular. He wanted the election to be held in the order prescribed by the convention,

Mr. Powderly arose in the parquet to object to the crowding of the platform with people who were not entitled to seats there. Only the officers of the convention and the members of the press. He also objected to the method just adopted of electing Col. Polk chairman, because of its irregularity. When the vote was properly taken the Knights of Labor would cast $2 votes for Col. L. L. Polk. Chairman Cannon said that it would be proper to select a committee on permanent organization.

A motion to reconsider the motion by which Col. Polk was elected chairman was made and carried.

A good deal of confusion prevailed for some time in the parquet, where the selegates were seated, several gentlemen trying to speak at the same time. One gentleman cialmed that a large number of non-delegates were in the parquet among the delegates and that no business could be transacted until the outsiders retired.

Finally a motion by Gen. Weaver to proceed to the nomination of a permanent chairman was recognized by the chair, but without putting the motion, Mr. Cannon called for nomination, Terreil being strongly backed by the Kentuckians. In taking the voke Kentuckians and Ben Terreil of Texas were placed in nomination, Terreil being strongly backed by the Kentuckians. In taking the voke secretary stelle called each organization by name and the number of votes it was entitled to, and the chairman then asked all members of that organization favorable to Polk to stand up and be counted. After the counting he would ask the advocates of Judge Terreil to rise and be counted. The delegates were seated by States, and in the call of an organization of the collina was about three-fourths over and most of the Gelegates in an announced for Polk, Judge Terreil appeared on the front of the platform and begged that his friends with this the chairman of the chairman of the chairman for the chairm

A white delegate from Georgia moved that the colored gentleman's nomination be made unanimous. "I wish to say," said he, "that we can stand that down in Georgia."

A delegate from Alabama: "I wish to state that the nomination of the colored man can not be made unanimous."

The motion of the Georgian was put and a great "aye" from several hundred voices settled the question for all except the objector from Alabama. Only one "no" was heard in the whole house.

Dr. McCune moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the convention decided, last evening, upon the manner of selecting a committee on resolutions—namely, by States—and the motion prevailed.

Dr. McCune then moved that each organization be allowed a representative on the committee for every twenty-five of its delegates.

Mr. Donnelly wanted every organization

The motion as amended by Mr. Donnelly was carried.

It was nearly 1 o'clock this afternoon when the convention was called to order again. The chair announced the appointment of the following sergeants at-arms: C. F. Davis of Iowa, W. H. Simmons, Maine; Milton Park, Texas; and J. W. Pike. Missouri.

During the recess many of the organizations reported the names of their representatives on the Platform and Anti-Option Committees, and the list was read by the Secretary. But as some of the societies had not reported, a recess was taken until 3 p. m. to complete the nominations and enable the Secretary to make up a correct list.

It was announced that the Georgia dispute had been settled in the Credentials committee and settled satisfactorily to all concerned.

A TRADES UNION KICK.

William Anderson, one of the delegates from the Trades and Labor Assembly of St. Louis, was kicking at the doors of the Credentials Committee, and seemed to be quite hot because of an alleged neglect of the committee to consider his credentials. He said he put them in last night and from the report this morning it looked as though they were side tracked. He said that during the recess he got into the room and had a talk with the committee, or rather one of them, Miss Mary Stevens of Ohio, who went for him because the assembly was a member of the American Federation of Labor. Anderson foretold terrible things if he and his associate, Phillip Hohfer, were not admitted.

Jerry Simpson moved an adjournment to 2 o'clock to give the Committee on Resolutions an opportunity to be formed. Dr. Macune of Texas, who publishes an Alliance paper at Washington City, read a telegram from John Whittaker of St. Louis and C. Wood Davis of Kansas City, dated at Washington City to-day, asking the convention to pass a resolution calling upon Congress to pass the anti-option bill now pending, and he specially called attention to the conclusion of the message "Get Powderly's indorsement." [Cheers.] He moved that a committee of one from each State be selected to prepare the resolutions asked for. "Sockless Jerry," who had withdrawn his motion to adjourn for the reading of the telegram' now renewed it, but Macune claimed that his motion was in order.

THE PROHIBITION WRANGLE. MISS FRANCES WILLARD MAKES AN EXPLAN-

Speaking this morning of the trouble at the robibition meeting at the Southern Hotel resterday, Miss Willard made the following yesterday, Miss Willard made the following statement:

The disagreemeht among Prohibitionists resvited from a misapprehension. It was thought by some who did not attend nor understand the purpose of the Chicago conference at the Sherman House, that the Prohibition party as such was to come to St. Louis, making propositions of union with the People's party, when in fact the Sherman House conference was made up of Prohibition and People's party leaders who desire to go before the Industrial Conference asking for certain planks in its platform, from which it was expected the platform, from which it was expected the platform, from which it was expected the platform of a political movement would be built, which would have in it such declarations on the suppression of the Ilquor traffic and the ballot for women as would enable the Prohibition party through its National Committee to meet the National Convention of the Labor party with a view to harmony in platforms and candidates. This would be the more practicable because the Prohibition party has for years occupied substantially the same ground as that taken by the labor organizations on the economic, transportation and cognate issues.

At a final conference of the Prohibitionists at the Southern Hotel, Feb. 25, Chairman Dickle and Miss Willard united in a resolution to the effect that as a party Prohibitionists could treat only with political forces that declare for the same principles. This does not in the least interfere with the efforts now being so earnestly put forth by Miss Willard and other Prohibitionists as individuals to secure such declarations from the present industrial conference as may serve as the basis of future united political action among labor reformers and temperance reformers.

COMPROMISE REACHED IN THE GEORGIA DEL-EGATION TO-DAY. The split in the Georgia delegation on the third party question was settled this morning by a compromise in the Committee on ing by a compromise in the Committee on Credentials which gives that delegation three members from the Livingstone anti-Third Party faction, and two from the Post faction, which favors the formation of a third party. It is leared that this "compromise" will result in the delegation offering a solid opposition to Third Partyism. The Missouri, Alabama and Tennessee delegations are also "split" on this question and it is thought that all four States named will withdraw from the Industrial Alliance on the organization of the Third party. Mr. Livingston and Dr. C. W. Macune, it is stated, were in conference at the latter's hotel until a late hour last night over this situation, but the result of their talk is not made public.

When it does report, the following platform will be recommended to the convention by that committee:

"We demand the issuance of Treasury notes direct to the people, which shall be full legal tender for all debts, public and private, and to be issued to the people in limited amounts on land and other approved securities at a tax not exceeding the average increase of wealth.

"We demand non-allen ownership of land.
"We demand Government control of the railroads, and should that not prove satisfactory in its workings, we demand Government ownership of railroads.

"We demand the suppression of saloons. The saloon is the enemy of society and good government."

INTO THE THIRD PARTY.

Gen. A. J. Streeter of Illinois, the head of John M. Palmer, was asked this morning by a Post-Dispatch reporter as to the basis of harmony to be reached by the single tax people with the third party.

"Harmony will be reached," said Gen. Streeter, "by the single-tax advocates leaving the doctrine of single tax altogether out of consideration. It cannot be brought before this convention, because the farmers will never accept the single tax idea. The single tax people have, however, two principles upon which they are in thorough harmony with the third party. They are the non-allen ownership of land and government control of railroads. It is probable that upon these two points the union between the single tax people and the third party will be effected."

A TALK WITH JERRY SIMPSON. Jerry Simpson was seen this noon. He said that this is one of the greatest meetings ever held in the United States. In size and entusiasm it more than fulfilled the expectations of the reformers. It would be perfectly harmonious. There were, it is true, outcroppings.

or diverse opinions, our he predicted that the various elements would range themselves under one flag.

"Will it take third party action?"

"It will unquestionably recommend the formation of a new party."

"Will it make nominations?" "No, probably will arrange for a nom-nating convention in this spring, but no ominations now." No; the Prohibitionists won't ask it.

You mean," the reporter asked, "with he sockless class?"
"Yes," laughed Mr. Sampson. THE MISSOURI DELEGATION.

The Missouri delegates, embracing all or-ders, met this morning in one of the Exposition galleries, and, after a perfectly harmo nious expression of opinion, voted to send a committee to Jefferson City to urge upon Gov. Francis the submission of a message to the Legislathe submission of a message to the Legisla-ture now in session, recommending the amendment of the present ballotiaw. The meeting was in favor of the law, but objected to the 3 per cent clause and other technicalities of the statute, which prac-tically disfranchised large numbers of

MAY LOSE THE CONVENTION.

A meeting of the local Prohibitionists will be held on Thursday evening at the office of W. C. Wilson, 619 Chestnut to raise $2,500, the Executive Board of the probibition party having given notice that unless that amount is raised within the next ten days that the National Convention to be held in St. Louis June 29, would be held elsewhere.

The Informal Club. The Informal Club, at its meeting last night, was entertained and edified by night, was entertained and edified by speeches from Third Party men now in the city. Bishop Tuttle presided and opened the meeting with a few appropriate remarks on Washington, then the topic of the evening was taken up: "What is the matter with the farmer?" Jerry Simpson was the first speaker to give his views on the subject. He was followed by Hamlin Garland, the single tax Bostonian, and he in turn by Leverett Leonard, President of the Missouri Farmers' and Laborers' Union.

Norman J. Golman concluded the addresses, and then a general discussion followed by the various members.

The trouble over the Georgia delegation as settled by the Committee on Credential this afternoon after a three hours' discus-sion. They reported in favor of Wilson

The fight has grown so warm that the university students have their delegations to-day lobbying like professionals; one of their contingents is urging the retention of the University in Columbia while the other is making a lively fight to remove it to Sedalia, Marshall or any other place, so long as it is taken out of Boone County. President Jesse is also on the ground, but he is not there for or against Columbia. He has come in response to an invitation from the Assembly to tell the needs of the institution. He is not at all pleased with the action of the two factions in the University in sending delegates here. The Columbiaites claim that the antis took the initiative in the premises, while the latter say it is just the reverse. When President Jesse saw the delegation at the depot in Columbia and learned that they were coming here he became indignant and indulged in some plain talk. Among other things he said:

This ingenious dodge does not serve its purpose, but it shows that the editor of the ublic has sense enough to realize that it is wiser to risk loss on an uncertainty than to put up on a certainty of loss.

THE Supreme Court has decided that the Municipal Assembly can, without consulting the people, lease the parks for saloon purposes and convert them into beer garns maintained at the public expense for the benefit of the breweries. This is a fair notice to St. Louis voters that they must be careful in electing members of the Assembly if they do not want their parks turned into beer gardens.

If you to go to Chicago. There you will find the

This is a startling statement and indicates upon Gov. FIFER's part a condition of pessimism, which, if diagnosed by the ordinary rules of the medical profession, would be pronounced fatal. It is an extraordinary attack, for which an extraordinary cause must be found. This cause is suggested in the Governor's advice to his hearers to go to Chicago to find the climax of the disintegrating, demoralizing, corrupting forces which threaten Republican government and the existence of Christian civilization. Gov. FIFER had been to Chicago and the scenes of horror there which make one think that DANTE really saw in his lively imagination the Chicago of the future instead of the old time-worn infernal regions, had shivered his rustic soul and made him groan and weep after the manner of the old poet. He saw greed crushing the weak nopoly, human wolves ranging the streets unchecked, thugs plying their villainy in public places by day and night, unpunished murderers stalking abroad defying the law, flendish anarchy lurking in dark corners and the city government reek- knew ing in corruption and dominated by boss mass not half enough Fifer men to redeem it in his eyes. His despair therefore is natural.

But while admitting that the Governor had reason to think hard things of some municipal governments, we must protest against the hasty generalization which assumes that Chicago is a type of all Ameritation with the separation of the separation can cities. It is as if one should go to New York, and dropping into the late den THE speeches of CLEVELAND and HILL of BILLY MCGLORY, should assume that all New York is a vile dive and all New Yorkers villains. Gov. HILL's quite right in saying that there is a reawakening of the Democracy. There is no doubt about it. The convention in St. Louis is an example of it. It is the reappearance of a spirit which has more than once saved the nation when in peril, and is still fresh and vital. Among other things it can do is to save us from the machinations of those "whose political activity consists in attempts to gain popular support by cunning devices and shrewd

Collector Ziegenhein has always claime that one reason why his collections fell short of the sum figures showed they should be was that he was too soft-hearted to press a poor man who owed the city money.

This has been his defense, especially in the ease of the butchers, who are among the to collect license fees. Louis who was succeeded the other President of the Butchers by Lon Hawkins, says that fully 700 of the 1,500 butchers in this city pay no license, and that the Collector excused himself to the paying butchers who protest against this inannot bear to press a poor butcher with a wife and family who would have to shut up his shop if forced to do either that or pay his attitude towards the butchers which is right in point. In the fall he moved out to a place on the Gravols road, near Cal-fornia avenue. He has a little frame shop there, near the junction of two lines of John Scallin's electric cars, and both he and his Scullin's electric cars, and both he and his wife handle the cleaver and saw. They were both behind the counter waiting on customers when they were visited by a Post-DISFATCH reporter, and during a little luli in business told the incident about which the other butchers are talking. Butcher Zettwoch and his wife are both simple, candid Germans, who speak English slowly and with precision. The wife did most of the talking, the butcher now and then speaking when she referred to him for corroboration.

then speaking when she referred to him for corroboration.

They said that last July, when they were down on Seventh street, they were asked to pay their license and found it would pinch them to do it. The butcher went down to the Collector's office to see Mr. Ziegenhein, and Mrs. Zettwock made an appeal to Mrs. Ziegenhein, who now and then dropped into the shop to get a steak or a roast while out on a marketing tour. The result of the joint supplication for time to pay the license was that Zettwock was told to pay the Collector. $25 cash and the rest of the $50, the price of a year's license, would be taken out by Mrs. Ziegenhein in meat. The butcher and his wife thought this was a very generous condition on the part of the collector, and they supplied the family market basket with meat every day for several weeks.

chopping-block, where he has his license for this year hanging now.

Zettwock told the reporter that he thought a man ought to be a good citizen and pay his license. For his part he would be only too glad if the license was put up to $100, providing it was collected. His wife inveighed agains the Collector for making them pay a license and letting other butchers whom she knew carry on business without one.

THE COLLECTOR EXPLAINS.

A reporter of the Post DISPATCH went to the Collector's office to-day and asked him if August Zettwock, his family butcher, had cians. It must be admitted that good men and women are reared—begging the Governor's pardon for slightly correcting his English—in Chicago under most adverse circumstances and that the State was justified in exercising guardianship over that awful city. As if to paint darkness black the Governor found in Chicago's seething mass not half enough Fifer men to redeem it in his eyes. His despair therefore is uty Ungar added with affection, "paid that license himself."

The deputy took down his books for last year and this and showed Zettwock credited with $50 for each year. Collector Ziegenhein looked on, his hands behind him.

"Yes," said beputy Ungar, "I don't understand how people can make up such stories. I knew they were saying that Zettwock had paid nothing because he was the old man's family butcher. You see I was going to prosecute him when the old man came in here one day and handed me $50 out of his pocket. "You give Zettwock a license," said he. Yes, sir, "he added with a burst of confidence, "and the old man had to take it out in meat afterwards."

"Did you?" the reporter asked.
The Collector nodded, with a smile.

The Investigating Committee. The Investigating Committee.

In the Council to-night the committee appointed to investigate the Collector's methods, will make two reports. Councilman John C. Benslek, who is a warm personal friend of the Collector and acted as his coursel in the meeting of the Investigating Committee, will present a minority report which will be a hearty endorsement of the Czar and a declaration that he and his system are absolutely beyond criticism. The majority report will be made by Councilmen Anderson and Arnstein. It will show that the Collector is not getting the money for the city and State that he should obtain, and will direct attention to the slowness of saloon collections especially. It will recommend that a penalty shall be added to dramshop license fees if not paid when due, and that the law relating to saloon petitions and remonstrances shall be more strictly enforced. A strong effort will be made by the Collector's political friends to pull through the report of Councilman Benslek. They feel sure that, moderate as the majority report is, it will hurt the Collector is depending upon all the Republican votes in the Council for his vindication. He will certainly have the votes of Fresident Walbridge and Councilmen Hoolan and Benslek. He thinks, too, that he will have that of Councilman Cole, the told the Investigating Committee the other day that he and Councilman Cole, who is the owner of a planing mill.

passing Eleventh and Olive streets about 11 clock this morning when, so they state, they saw a well-dressed young man whose face seemed familiar, dodge into a cigar store as though he wished to avoid them. They recognized him and he at once tried "to square himself" with the detectives, so they claim, by offering $45, all he had, to be let alone. They recognized him as George Howard, who was arrested in this city May 7, 1888, at the Southern Hotel during the Democratic Convention. A thief stole $600 from one of the rooms and Howard was arrested. The case against him could not be proven, but his pletture was taken at the time and he left town. He was then known as Howard, and as also Kelly. He told betective McGrath he arrived in the city yesterday from Tipton, Mo., and was stopping at Hurst's Hotel, room $92. They found his statements to be correct but they took him to the Four Courts, nevertheless, as three robberies were reported this morning from the Richelieu Hotel. Howard was registered at Hurst's as James H. Walters of Tipton, Mo. He is known, so the authorities say, as the "Artful Dodger." and when the hotel robberies were heard of this morning the "Dodger." was given the credit by the police of doling the work. He says he only arrived in St. Louis yesterday and would have left town to night if he had not been arrested, and that he has not been "crooked" since he came here.

J. H. Lamb & Co., Proprietors.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21, 1892.

MY DEAR FRIEND—I have just returned from the Cathedral, where Bishop Tuttle preached. My mind is not in a very receptive frame, so I can hardly tell anything he said. The pass was all a myth. The only pass I have is one into eternity. I even sold my dress suit and my old clothes to raise the funds to get here on. I came intending to first kill you, then kill myself. I shall only make an end of my own miserable existence. My love for you has been my ruin. I can no more live a life apart from yours than I can ny. The past month has been the test and I can not do it. There is but one thing which could save me, and that is to pass the remainder of my life in your presence. I shall do that anyhow, for to die in your arms releves death of half its terrors. I wish it would come to me naturally, and you could be with death of haif its terrors. I wish it would come to me naturally, and you could be with me to the last, then you would have nothing to dishonor or grieve you. It is cruel in me to do this act, for it will blight your life. I should be more cruel to myself to try to live without you. You have done all but the one right and effective thing to save and make me, but it has all failed. I would gladly beg. steal, do anything, forego riches, forget friends, home, kindred, but for a life of blissful association with you. My office and outfit are all intact, and you can realize something on those things. Mr. Carroll Hall, Si6 Madison avenue, will see to the things. I appreciate all you did, and the effort and sacrifice you made for me, it was not in the right direction. This letter to you is all I leave behind. I cannot write anything to my parents. The blow will probably kill my mother. I shudder to think of it. We might have been happy together had it not been for the Whitelaws and the Wheelers, your other rich friends, your high, social and business standing, your high, social and business standing, your high, social and business standing, your high ideals of morality which you never filled, but 'its too late, the end must come. I don't see why God did not let me die that Saturday night. I suppose there was some purpose waiting till you had made the outlay and sacrificed so much. You see the end is all the same. Good-bye, dear Isaac, I won't wish you happiness, you will never have that again, and you will follow in my footsteps some time. Men of our natures and sins must have their punishment, and ours comes in a terrible shape. I do not want my body sent to Ft. Smith, my only wish Is that it may lie somewhere convenient, so that when your end comes you can be put by me. You are mine in the sight of heaven, and no family ties can claim you from me in death. I pity you, but oh, to be free from all this agony of separation, suspense, doubt, Is so welcome. May God deal with me according to my weekness. Keep my stud as lo

MY DEAR PRIEND—ARE YOU III, angry or merely carelass? I looked for my usnail Thursday's lefter Saturday morning. It came not. I then felt sure you would write me on Sunday. I watched for the postman. No letter. He has been here this a. m. and still no letter. It makes me not only unhappy, but very anxious. Unhappy since I am deprived of all that is left me to care for or look forward to. Unhappy in the thought that I have displeased you. In suspense and anxiety less some bodily aliment has seized that goodly frame and rendered you unable to communicate with me. If I do not hear from you in a day or so I shall be frantic and undt for anything. I sent the stud on Thursday, which must have reached you Saturday and not later than Monday, in which case I should sheet of linen paper in the small and neat running hand of the other. It was never naished and was unsigned.

MR. Judson's explanation of his connection with the case was given very fully to the Post-Disparch to-day. He states that he had been an intimate friend of the suicide's owing to their having boarded at the same place for quite a long time. For some time past Breediove had been much depressed in mind about his finlure to establish himself in his profession and about his financial condition. He had been forced to borrow money from his friends, among whom was Mr. Judson. Breedlove was about to leave the city for a visit to his relatives in Raltimore, Md., expecting to secure a railroad pass from St. Louis to that city. He about a month ago, and Mr. Judson had then written to Breedlove's father at Fort pushed about three feet from the wall, and on the floor behind it lay the body of a man. In the right temple was a bloody hole, the right side of the shirt and trousers were soaked with blood, and a pool lay on the carpet. The right hand rested on the floor, convulsively clasping a pistol. Death had evidently been instentaneous, as the Scalibre bullet had entered the right temple, and embedded itself deep in the brain.

Dr. E. T. Breedlove, for it was he, was partially dressed, wearing trousers and shirt, but no coat or vest. His back rested against the well and his legs were under the bed. There was no sign of pain or convulsion in the corner as man apparently about syen of the feets. TOO STRONG TO SUIT HIM.

Rov. Laird listened with bowed head to Attorney Cockrell as the confession was read to him, and only looked up once, when he said:
"That is stronger than I should wish to have it." This remark was in reference to the clause of the confession stating that he had written the blackmailing hetters to Mr. Bowman, knowing that they would prove ruinous to himself, his wife and his children in addition to the injury to Mr. Bowman's character. But he made no unther opposition to the wording and the passage was allowed to stand. As soon as the confession was read he signed his name to it in the presence of Attorney Chapin. Justice Wilson, Chief Waish, and a number of spectators who had gathered in the confession was readed and the confession was readed to stand.

RIDDLED WITH SHOT

George Harris, a Colored Murderer. Lynched by a Mob.

AN ARKANSAS JAIL THE SCENE OF THE TRAGEDY.

The Ill-Fated Wretch Accused of Killing E. T. Parker-Fired at Through the Cell Grating-The Seventh Victim in Two Weeks-Terrifying Evil Doers-Criminal News.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Feb. 23.—George Harris, a negro prisoner in the Lincoln County Jail was riddled with bullets last night by a mol at Varner, the county seat of Lincoln County thirty miles south of this city, on the Valley road. Shortly before midnight a crowd of armed men entered the sleeping room of H. B. Rogers, the jailer, and de manded the keys to the jail. Mr. Rogers refused, but finding that the crowd was determined and that further resistance A rush was made for the jail and Harris' cell quickly located. The negro had heard the noise, however, and placed a billet of wood on the lock in such a position that the bolt could not be turned. Seeing the door could not be forced open, one of the leaders of the mob deliberately drew a revolver, and placing the muzzle through the bars, pulled the trigger. In a moment a score of guns joined in and the negro fell to the floor fatally injured, the blood streaming from a dozen wounds. Having accomplished the work to their satisfaction, the crowd quietly dispersed.

Harris' crime was the murder of one E. T. Parker, a sewing machine man, in July last in the lower portion of Lincoin County. The killing was cruel and unprovoked and caused great indignation at the time. Harris escaped and was not captured until November last, since which time he has been in jail at Varner. and Harris' cell quickly located. The negro last, since which time he has been in jall at Varner.

There are a number of reasons explaining the reason why the lynching occurred last night, so long after the commission of the crime. First, there is a great deal of feeling in the country because of the many outrages recent suffered at the hands of the negroes. The escape from the authorities last week of W. J. Hancock, the negro who caused serious trouble here during election day in 1890, intensified this feeling. In addition to this there were a large number of friends and relatives of the murdered man in Varner the past week, testifying before the grand-jury, and of course their presence had its influence. Harris is the seventh negro who has received justice at the bands of a mob in this section of the State during the past two weeks. past two weeks.

INFANTICIDE. GOLCONDA, Ill., Feb. 23 .- A shocking case The discovery of a newly made grave in a deserted and isolated graveyard on the farm of Ed Braden, coupled with the fact that Braden's 16-year-old daughter had been in a delicate condition, aroused the suspicions of the people. The authorities were forced to investigate the matter, and at a depth of one foot in the grave they found a bundle of clothing which contained the body of a fully developed child. On examination its skull was found to have been crushed. The Bradens, unable to deny the evidences of their guilt, admitted the birth of the infant but claimed it was still born. This the doctors deny. There are several parties implicated in the affair. The discovery of a newly made grave in a de-

I want to say a few words to you about Shirts and Shirt making. There are a great many men who never have a shirt to fit or please them although they have them made to order and pay a top price. There are several reasons why they are not suited, but it may be unkind in me to give them. I will say this, however, that if you want a shirt made to your measure that will fit you, and please you, and make you comfortable, I will make it for you, provided you do not give me too many instructions as to how a shirt should be made, but give me the order to make it and you the right to reject it, provided it does not suit you. Remember I make nothing but the best and highest class shirts and you take no risk of getting shirts which do not please you as I will try them on and fit you in my store as a tailor does a coat.

A few days ago, after subjecting her to most cruel treatment, it is claimed, her husband deserted her and left for South America. Minnie Rheimberg is the daughter of M. Rheimberg as clear maker doing business at 38 North Eighth street. She was a very good looking young Jewess and attracted the attention of Herman Hilf, a cigarmaker, employed in the establishment of F. R. Rice & Co. Hilf was a man of some education and a good stock of European manners, which he brought over here with him from Russia only a few years ago. With his polished ways he set about winning the affections of Miss or it is a few years ago. On Friday night it was that the had been deserted by her husband and was on the verge of insanity from sorrow and distress. On Friday night it was that the husband left. He dressed himself in his best clothes and told his wife he was going to the lodge meeting. Then to arre the lower noors that Hilf has maltreated his wife shamefully, abusing her and sometimes striking her.

A call was made upon Hilf's brother, who is a cigarmaker employed by F. R. Rice & Co., to learn if he knew of his brother's whereabouts. He said he knew nothing beyond the fact that he had left the city. He knew of no cause for his going, and did not knew of no cause for his going, and did not knew of no cause for his going, and did not knew of no cause for his going, and did not knew of no cause for his going, and did not knew of no cause for his going, and did not know where he went.

The father, Mr. Rheimberg, was seen at his store. He was very much distressed over his trouble and said: "That man was from Russia and if they are all like him there I am not surprised that they are driving them out. There is no name in the dictionary bad enough for him, and if I was ten years younger than I am I would follow him and he never would escape me. He came here and I knew nothing about him. Minnie fell in love with him, so I had to let them get married. That was only two months ago. On Friday he left her where they were living, at 600 Easton avenue, and went away to South America, so he told me in a note. I learned then that he had beaten his wife and treated her wery bad. I am ashamed to go on the street, and my wife will not go near to the windown because everybody looks and points. I will take my daughter back and give her a good home. I have taken care of her stinc she was three days old, when her mother died, and will take care of her still. If that man ever comes back here I don't know what I will do to him. My daughter is almost crazy, and is in a terrible condition.

WHY THEY FAILED TO PARADE.

Professors at Washington University
Discuss the Cadets' Action. The boys attending the various branches of corps of cadets. The Washington Uni-signed asking that the invitation be refused and the parade given over for the more important and amusing foot-ball game. The powers that direct the destinies of the University concentrated their intellects upon the question and then the mandate went forth that the Washington University Cadets would not parade. Then the boys threw up their hats and cheered for George Washington in a most enthusiastic manner.

Several of the professors were seen to-day, and asked why it was that there was not a parade yesterday. Prof. Kroll of the Manual Training School said that as far as he knew it was because the boys wanted to see the foot ball game, but that he was not sure. Prof. C. M. Woodward said that the foot ball game was the first cause, but that beside that more than sufficient reason, the boys were green, and had marched the battalion but once, and owing to the youthfalness of the corps it would not make a showing consistent with the dignity of the University: maybe next year, or on some other occasion, the boys would know the drill well enough to march all together in step with the music and make a good showing. Prof. Woodward did not seem to consider it in the least disre-

George Dawson, or "Gentleman George, as the ex-champion lightweight of Australia is familiarly known, arrived at San Francisco Capt. A. D. Youum Slays His Daughter's last Thursday morning on the steamer Mariposa. Dawson is 25 years old, stands 5 feet 6 before 6 o'clock this evening Capt. A. D. Yocum shot and killed Myron Van Fleet. The inches, and in build is something of the ting occurred in front of the cigar store like Danny Neednam in the face. ing the Bostwick Hotel. Van Fleet was standing in the doorway, and Yocum came hopes to get a return match with Williams, along the street and halted directly in front of Van Fleet and commenced shooting. Four about due in Lohdon. Dawson, however, of Van Fleet and commenced shooting. Four shots were fired in rapid succession, two of which entered Van Fleet's body, one passing entirely through the body, Van Fleet staggered into the office of the hotel and fell from exhaustion. Capt. Yocum stood still until an officer came and arrested him. Van Fleet was carried home on a stretcher and died within an hour.

The tragedy is the outcome of reports circulated about fifteen months ago derogatory to the character of Capt. Yocum's daughler. This story was that she had been guilty of intimacy with a colored man who was at that time a porter on a chair-car running to Denver over the Burlington route, and afterward that she and the colored man had been married. These stories were published at Lincoln, and caused quite a commotion at the time. Those stories are entirely without foundation and were not believed by those acquainted with the family. It was believed and charged that Myron Van Fleet was the originator of the stories, and he certainly gave them currency.

Capt. Yocum was in Idaho and knew noth-

GODDARD DEFEATS RYAN. It was believed by many that Joe Goddard's long silence in reference to the California Club's offer for a match with Joe McAuliffe Club's offer for a match with Joe McAuliffe portended that he had been defeated by Ned Ryan in their battle which was set down to take place in the Melbourne Club Jan. 2 for a purse of £125. Advices received from Australia by the steamer Mariposa, however, show that Ryan quit in the fifth round after a lively fight. The following is an account of the battle by rounds:

Round 1—The word "time" was no sooner given than Goddard made one of his hurricane rushes, but was well met by Ryan. In the rally which ensued Ryan was downed, and Goddard was floored with the impetuosity of his own hit. Both regained their legs quickly, and some furious in fighting was witnessed, Ryan quite holding his own and a bit to spare.

originator of the stories, and he certainly gave them currency.

Capt. Yocum was in Idaho and knew nothing of the reports. His family let him remain in ignorance of the facts, fearing that if he should hear of its trouble would ensue. He returned home nearly a month ago and learned of the stories and trouble from Myron Van Fleet. Since then he has been trying to ascertain who was the author of the sensational item in the Lincoin paper. But it it is not known whether he had learned the author or not. The final tragedy is not a surprise to those who know Capt. Yocum and know how jealous he has guarded the honor of his family.

nessed, Ryan quite holding his own and a bit to spare.

Round 2—Goddard opened with a victous right for the head. This Ryan dodged, and instead of standing off he went in to mix matters, and some real hard fighting eventuated, the rally ending in Goddard being heavily floored. He was up in a trice and sent Ned to the boards with a body blow. The ten seconds appeared very short. For some cause or another the referee administered a caution, and during the remainder of the round it looked as if Ryan was a sure winner.

Round 3-Both men came up with a considerable amount of caution. After a little fencing Ryan sent out the left, and Goddard clinched to avoid. Breaking away, a hard and fast raily succeeded, Ryan getting well on the law twice and bringing Goddard own with the second hit. The Barrier champion came up groggy, but was all work; he bored in and sent Ned to the boards. Another ten seconds and Ryan only came up to be again floored by Joe, who was now displaying splendid form.

Round 4-This was a regular fighting round, but despite the best endeavors of Goddard. Ryan was there till the call of corners, when it was any man's fight.

Round 5 and last-The final round opened with some quick in and-out countering. This lasted for full two minutes when the with some quick in and out countering. This lasted for fully two minutes, when the specta-tors were almost electrified at Ryan's second throwing up the towel, and Goddard was de-clared the winner. clared the winner.
Goddard, the accounts state, is himself again. During the whole of the contest he displayed more of his old form than he has done since his memorable fight with Choynski, which took place at the Melbourne Athletic Club. Ryan fought all right, but there appears to be something missing. It may be want of heart. At one stage of the fight he looked a winner, then he collapsed. Why Patent Leather Shoes,

A New Orleans special says that Bob Fitz-immons finished his training yesterday and from now on he will endeavor to take on as much weight as possible. He expects to enter the ring weighing 173 pounds. Billy Smith of Australia and Frank Keller of Michigan, two heavyweights, fought in the rooms of the California club at San Francisco last night for a $1,500 purse. The Australian compelled the Michigan man to throw up the sponge after the twenty-fourth round, after clearly demonstrating his superiority over him in every way.

A more complete account of the Johnson-Garcia fight, which took place near New Orleans Sunday, was received yesterday. The centest was a brutal affair from start to finish, and Garcia particularly was terribly punished. Johnson was in this city several weeks ago, and at the time was eager to secure a fight with 'Andy Bowen. He is said to be a fair second-rater in his class.

With St. Louis, John T. O'Brien. Wm. McGill has been assigned to the list of the Cincinnati Club by the committee. A special (schedule) meeting of the National League and American Association will be held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, on Tuesday, March 1, at 7:30 p. m. Col. Rogers has called a meeting of the National Agreement Committee for the same day and place at noon.

CONTRACTS PROMULGATED. President Von der Ahe and Secretary Munson of the St. Louis Browns leave for New York City to-night. They will meet Messrs. Byrne and Hart of the Schedule Committe and complete their labors, arranging all the details of the schedule prior to to the spring details of the schedule prior to to the spring meeting of the League-Association March 2. Mr. Von der Ahe this morning in the course of a chat said:

"Everything looks bright once more for base ball, and the prospects are the season of 1892 will go down in history as the most successful yet scored. The public of St. Louis have wanted to see the St. Louis Browns in League company, and their desires will be amply gratited the coming season. With such clubs as the New York Glants, Boston Reds, Brooklyns, Philadelphias and Unicago White Stockings coming to St. Louis, it will serve to satisfy a long felt want, and it will be at least refreshing."

THE TURF. The investigation by the East St. Louis Jockey Club of the Caddo-Post Odds ringer case, which was worked at the East Side course last Wednesday, took place at the of fice of the East Side Jockey Club last night Henry M. on this point was the same, and in addition he said, he was with Queen when the horse Post Olds or Caddo arrived at the Union Depot, where he saw it, but did not notice that the animal was painted or disguised in any manner. He admitted leaving that night for Kansas City for the purpose of backing the horse the next day, but backed him only on his own account. J. F. Hinckley testified that he was in Chicage the day the race was run, and in response to a request for a good Goods sent all O. K.

He did not play Caddo, however, as every-body in Chicago appeared to have received the tip, and he thought it too good a thing to "go through." He did not know Caddo was the tip, and he thought it too good a thing to "go through." He did not know Caddo was a ringer.

Joe Kletzker, a Washington avenue saloon-keeper, followed and said that Queen, Walker and Richards were at his piace one evening and that Queen told him he was the party that manipulated the Polk Badget affair at Latonia, and that he intended to work another game of that klud at this point shortly. He asked the witness to come in to the extent of $1,000. "He finally, however, consented to let me: in," said Kletzker, "for $500." I took the matter under advisement and consulted some friends, who advised me to keep out of it. Bookmaker Gardner, alias "Frisco," stated that several strangers were in Chicago attempting to "plug" Caddo last Wednesday, William Webb, another "bookie," and L. P. Sharkey followed and told what they knew about the job.

The jockey club officials reserved their decision, but it is known that they will deal severely with some of the parties who were accused of having been implicated with Queen in the affair.
